MEDIA ALERT

Garden Grove Firefighters Going Bald For Childhood Cancer Research

Garden Grove Firefighters and the Career Academy of Beauty will be teaming up tomorrow, March 16, 2016 to raise money for the Saint Baldrick's Foundation for childhood cancer research. Firefighters will have their heads shaved voluntarily to raise money for this worthy cause, and they are inviting everyone to come out to show support. They will have their heads shaved by the career academy's students at 6:00 a.m.

According the Foundation's website, one in 285 children in the United States will have cancer before they turn 20. "This is a sobering statistic, and we are looking to help out in any way we can," said fire chief, Tom Schultz.
