I called the CP and asked specific questions as to when the auto repair is occurring and they said different times. The CP said just the other day a crushed car was delivered in the driveway. I asked when specifically and they said they did not know. I asked if there was a particular time of day or day of the weeks damaged cars are delivered to the property and the CP could only say different days and times, nothing specific. I asked when auto body repair/painting is occurring I would need them to contact me so I could hear the noises of repair and smell the paint odors they are referring to as it is occurring. Without seeing, hearing or other evidence which I advised needs to be in plain sight i cannot address a violation. They said they would and I provided them with my direct phone number.

I pulled up Elite Auto Collision on yellowpages.com and found a listing for this business with an address of 10521 Stanford Ave., phone number of (714) 791-3828. A link to the website connects to a page which looks very similar to the one provided by the CP.

I received a piece of paper on my desk with a photo of a webpage for eliteautocollision.net. Date on bottom right corner was very old, from 10/13/2010. See attached document: Elite Auto Collision.net 10/13/2010
