Thank you Mr. Durfey for your inquiry related to the new active transportation webpage. The new website is available now and linked to the Community and Economic Development Department webpage: (<http://www.ggcity.org/bikeped>).

All documents and links connected to the City's efforts to improve active transportation including details related to the first mile project and bike safety program, as you requested.

The City will continue to pursue grant opportunities for active transportation projects and will continue to periodically update the ATP website with new information and accomplishments. We welcome your feedback on the new website and we will also integrate additional information for grants into the Re:Imagine website that is anticipated to launch in December 2020.
